The committee appointed to investigate certain charges sgatist The City Collector, and to inquire into the manner of keeping the financial accounts of the city, made a partial report as follows:

The committee beg leave to state, in explanation of what may seem to be an unneccessary delay, in the completion of the work assigned them, that such delay has in a great part been caused by the want of certain books and papers, access to which would, as they believe, have greatly expedited their labors. In the absence of these it became necessary to adopt circuitous and laborious methods, in order to obtain such data as would enable the committee even to approximate the condition of the accounts in the office of the Collector. Hor.—Yesterday was another hot day.
Everybody confessed that the torrid temperature [was "fearful," and wondered how long the hot spell was likely to continue. Men and women who had business out of doors panted for breath as they wiped the great drops of perspiration from their faces, and the various institutions where human clay is moistened so as to adapt it to the needs of the hour, did a lively business. There was no necessity to frame excuses for a regular "wet down" of lager or iced lemonade even, with a stick in it. Humanity was in a sort of comatose state, like the boy was in a sort of comatose state, like the bo who, after partaking freely of rum-cher ries, did not care whether school kept or not. It was indeed very warm; but yet no one ought to complain, for it was just the weather needed to enable our farmers to make one of the largest hay crops that was ever gathered into their barns. The hot weather is good for the corn, also; Whose rich, luxurisht growth requires Soft, gentle showers and bright ethereal fires, soft, realis showers and bright ethereal fires, and it fairly jumped forward under the continued influence of moisture at the root and a range of the thermometer among the nineties among the stalks. If anybody is disposed to complain, because of the excessive heat of this little spell of much-needed warm weather, they should bear in mind the facts that its only one of those simple processes of nature by which the Divine decree is fulfilled, that "seed time and harvest shall never cease," when the Almighty "set his bow in the clouds" as a memorial of the promise.
